REFUGEES OF AUSTRIA MAY BE PROBLEM

Dumping Of Unfortunates Deemed Catastrophic

Evian-Bes-Lains, France, July 6.—(AP)—An Austrian refugee leader told American delegates he believed 4,500,000 Austrians would flee Nazi rule if a 32-nation conference opening today could find them a new homeland.

Arthur Rosenberg, representing the federation of Austrian exiles at the meeting inspired by President Roosevelt to try to help German Jews and refugees, said about 75 per cent of Austrians would leave their country if allowed to take a substantial part of their property with them.

(The Austrian population in the 1934 census was 6,760,233. Various estimates put the number of Jews in Austria at the time of the Austro-German union at 200,000 to 300,000, and the total number of persons with some Jewish blood at 600,000—roughly 10 per cent of the population.)

The United States delegation, headed by Myron C. Taylor, former head of the United States Steel Corporation, took the lead in preliminary negotiations for settling the refugee problem—made acute by the Austro-German union March 13.

The Americans made it plain, however, that the United States' attitude was one of helpfulness rather than direction. Officials said they were trying to help shape plans but "we do not intend to be the final judges of whatever may be done."

Consequently some hesitation was shown in considering French plans to make Taylor chairman of the conference, officially known as the intergovernmental committee on political refugees.

Issues Blunt Warning.

Taylor, addressing the opening session of the meeting, gave a blunt warning that forced migration of political and racial groups can bring "catastrophic suffering" upon the world. He said "general unrest and international strain" were unavoidable results of this migration.

He named only one country—Germany.

"I need not emphasize that discrimination and pressure against minority groups and disregard of elementary human life are contrary to the principles of what we have come to regard as accepted standards of civilization," Taylor declared.

He outlined the scope of the conference as to take in all problems dealing with the "great bodies of reluctant migrants who must be absorbed in abnormal circumstances with a disregard of economic conditions and at a time of stress."

This wave of migration, he said caustically, is forced upon the world at large and "artificially stimulated by governmental practices in some countries."

Calling forced migration of minorities "chaotic dumping of unfortunates," he declared this a more disturbing practice even than dumping merchandise, the disruptive consequences of which are generally known.

Heightens Problems.

It renders racial and religious problems more acute in all parts of the world, he said, and encourages retaliation against the responsible countries.

He predicted "catastrophic human suffering" unless nations unite in an effort to halt this "anarchical" practice "by some governments."

The conference received a memorandum from Francesco Nitti, exiled former premier of Italy, asking that the question of Italian refugees be taken up co-jointly with the German and Austrian discussions.

Railroad Men at Nelson Have Pet

Chicago & North Western yard employees at Nelson have a tame pigeon of which they take unusual care and which can be seen any day perched on the shoulder of one or another of the men as he is at work around the yards. The bird was found by Chris Blackburn of Dixon, last winter, suffering with a frozen foot. The men took the young bird in out of the cold, thawed out the foot and fed it. After the pigeon had fully recovered it was turned loose, but declined to leave, and returned every time it was shoed away. Finally John McCow adopted it, and it has been made a member of the repair gang.

Highways Closed

Chicago, July 6.—(AP)—The Chicago Motor Club reported today that several main highways leading to Wisconsin were still closed because of flood waters which inundated sections of northeastern Illinois last week-end.

Highways closed included U. S. 41 near Willow Road, Illinois 59 between Fox Lake and Antioch and Grand Avenue between Illinois 59 and Lake Villa. U. S. 12 is open only to one way traffic between Fox Lake and Illinois 30, the club said.

INSURGENTS ON COASTAL PLAIN NEAR VALENCIA

Franco's Warriors Harass Loyalist Defenders

Hendaye, France (at the Spanish Frontier), July 6.—(AP)—Insurgent troops fanned out into the foothills of the Sierra de Espadan mountains, natural defenses of Valencia, and attacked government positions along a 12-mile front today.

As Generalissimo Franco's drive down the coast gathered momentum, heavy reinforcements were reported rushed to the front to take advantage of a series of defeats which forced government militiamen to fall back at four points.

Two columns of General Miguel Aranda's Galician troops closed in on Nules from the west and north. Nules is 28 miles northeast of Valencia.

Farther west, two other units followed ravines in an effort to pierce the mountains to capture Segorbe, 26 miles northwest of the Mediterranean port city.

Segorbe, on the inland highway from Teruel, and Nules, on the coastal highway from Castellon de La Plana, are equidistant from Sagunto—15 miles.

The two form the base of a triangle on which Sagunto is the point and the junction of the two highways, which as one road continues to Valencia.

Insurgent warplanes battered government positions in the De Espadan mountains, easing the way for advancing foot troops who were forced to scale peak after peak under fire, and then drive out militiamen in hand-to-hand struggles. Insurgent dispatches said the government's main line defenses were broken in at least three places in the mountains, while the coastal plain west of Nules was being raked with light artillery fire.

Britain, Russia Sign Protocol On Naval Armament

London, July 6.—(AP)—Britain and Soviet Russia today signed a protocol bringing their naval agreement of July 30, 1936, into line with the new limit of 45,000 tons for battleship adopted by Britain, the United States and France.

Britain announced signature of a similar protocol with Germany, on June 30.

The 1936 Anglo-Soviet naval agreement bound Russia to accept most of the limitations of the London treaty of 1936 but left her a free hand with regard to her naval strength in the Pacific Ocean, where Japan is her potential enemy.

"Dick" Came Home

Columbus, O., July 6.—(AP)—Alexander Bernard took "Dick", his pet groundhog, on a visit to Delaware, 25 miles away. Later he missed the animal and returned home without him.

The next morning, attracted by scratching on the front door, Bernard found his footsore groundhog, who eagerly scampered into his cage.

Ring of Demolition Hammers Resounds Over Gettysburg Today

Gettysburg, Pa., July 6.—(AP)—Two veterans who attended the last reunion of the Blue and Gray died today—the first casualties among the hundreds of aged men who attended. One served with the Union forces, the other with the Confederates.

Daniel T. Price, 91, of Marion, Ind., died at the Carlisle hospital. John W. Cooper, 91, a Confederate veteran of Largo, Fla., died in a hospital here.

Physicians said both were victims of heart conditions.

The ring of demolition hammers resounded forlornly across this historic battlefield today as the last of 2,000 aged wearers of the Blue and Gray bade a final adieu to Gettysburg.

Hands that never again will be raised in salute to flags fluttering over a joint reunion of the old soldiers clasped in peace as the last contingent of 1,200 veterans boarded their special trains.

Soldier laughter died; crowds disappeared from the little town's cobblestone streets. And for those who roam the broad fields there were new souvenirs—cartridges fired in salute to the 75th anniversary of the great battle.

Two detachments of the army—the Medical Corps and the Quartermaster General's "clean-up" squad—will remain another week.

The Medical Corps is charged with the safe return of 34 veterans still confined to various nearby hospitals.

HIGHEST PLANE OF LIFE FOUND IN THIS STATE

Resources Board Says Life is at Best in Northern Illinois

Washington, July 6.—(AP)—The national resources committee, reporting to President Roosevelt on population problems, placed most of Illinois in the highest plane of living throughout the United States.

The highest plane, as described on a map which was part of the report, extended through southern New England, New York south of the great Lakes and across the states that far as Nebraska and Kansas.

It showed the upper half of Illinois and some territory below in the highest plane, with the remainder only a shade below that rating.

State Gains Population

Discussing movements of population from 1920 to 1930, the committee listed Illinois as one of the states that gained more population than they lost.

The report said that in the '20s Illinois both received and sent out large numbers of people. But in 1930, the only year for which figures were given, there was little change in its total population. The state then received 1,700,000 persons and sent out 1,600,000.

The committee found that many people left the best agricultural counties of Illinois to seek jobs where economic and social opportunities appeared to them to be greater. The report described the places they left however, as areas of relatively high natural increase (of population) and fairly stabilized agriculture with very little opportunity for new developments.

Wanderers on Move

This movement in and out of Illinois, the report said, was largely one of the aimless cross-currents brought about for the most part by persons who traveled from city to city but lacked definite destination.

A report predicting that the American population, after attaining a peak of 158,000,000 by 1938, would dwindle thereafter and would consist largely of old or middle-aged people also was released by the president.

Illinois Allotted $779,475 Tenant Purchase Loans

Indianapolis, Ind., July 6.—(AP)—The farm security administration announced today that Illinois had been allotted $779,475 for tenant purchase loans during the 1939 fiscal year which started July 1.

The allotment, made under provisions of the Bankhead-Jones arm tenant act, was approximately two and one half times the amount of last year's allotment, $311,790. R. C. Smith, regional director of the FSA, said. It will be sufficient to provide between five and 10 loans in each of the five new counties to be selected. Six counties were recipients of loans last year.

The Illinois counties have not been designated, "but we expect Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to announce his selection within the next few days," Smith said.

Last year, 34 purchase loans were made in Illinois. The counties in which they were made were: Lee, McLean, Fulton, St. Clair, Shelby and Saline.

Annual Contest Played Before Capacity Crowd in Cincinnati Ball Park

Vander Meer, Brown and Lee Pitched for Nationals

Crosley Field, Cincinnati, July 6.—(AP)—Brilliant pitching and timely hitting gave the National League All-Stars a 4 to 1 victory over their American League rivals in the sixth annual charity game between the two circuits before 28,000 spectators today.

FIRST INNING

AMERICANS: Kreevich, after taking a called strike, clouted a long fly to the center-field embankment that Ott caught on the run after first misjudging the ball. Gehringner bounded out. Vander Meer to McCormick. Averill was tossed out on an easy roller, Herman to McCormick.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NATIONALS: Hack lined a single over Cronin's head after fouling three balls into the stands behind the plate. Herman's sharp grounder went through Cronin, for an error. Hack raced to third. Goodman took a called third strike on a curve that broke low over the outside corner after fouling several into the stands. Medwick drove a long fly to Averill and Hack scored, standing up, after the catch. Ott lifted to Averill in short center.

SECOND INNING

AMERICAN: Foxx fanned. Vander Meer made a nice play by dashing half-way to third base to grab DiMaggio's hopper and then whirl to retire the Yankee closer. Herman tossed out Dickey on an easy roller.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NATIONAL: Lewis speared Lombardi's ground smash with his gloved hand and tossed out the big backstop. McCormick popped the first pitch to Gehringner. Durocher rolled out, Cronin to Foxx.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING

AMERICAN: Cronin lined a single over Hack's head for the first base hit off Vander Meer. Lewis flied deep to Ott. Gomez' hopper to the box bounded so high that Vander Meer barely had time to make the put-out after the ball came down. Cronin advanced to second. Kreevich popped to Herman, who made the catch on the grass behind first base. The crowd gave Vander Meer an ovation as he completed his three-inning job of holding the Americans in check.

NATIONAL: Hank Leiber, Giants' outfielder, batted for Vander Meer and lined the first pitch to Kreevich. Hack grounded out, Gehringner to Foxx. Herman, with the count three and two, singled past Lewis. Goodman got nothing more than a few high fouls off Gomez, finally lofting one to Dickey.

FOURTH INNING

AMERICAN: Big Bill Lee, right-hander of the Cubs, went to the box. He was picked instead of Carl Hubbell, for the second National League hurling trick. Gehringner walked. Averill's high fly was caught in short left center by Medwick. Foxx forced Gehringner at second, Durocher to Herman, on a slow roller. No attempt was made for a double play as Foxx reached first. DiMaggio took a called third strike on a sharp-breaking curve.

NATIONAL: Johnny Allen, Cleveland right-hander, took over the Americans' pitching job. Medwick worked the count to three and two before hoisting to Foxx. Ott tripled and scored on Lombardi's one-base smash to left. McCormick rolled out, Gehringner to Foxx, advancing Lombardi to second. Durocher fanned.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

FIFTH INNING

AMERICAN: Dickey scratched a two-base hit on a pop fly that Durocher lost in the sun, behind third base. Cronin flied out to Ott. Lou Gehrig, iron man of the Yankees, batted for Lewis and grounded out, Herman to McCormick, as Dickey reached third. Herman made a beautiful stop-and-throw on a hard smash that had the base hit label on it. Allen

ANGLO-ITALIAN AGREEMENT NOT OPERATIVE YET

Chamberlain Refuses To Hasten The Process

London, July 6.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today refused to hasten the Anglo-Italian agreement into effect or even name a definite date for its coming into force.

He told the House of Commons he felt conditions for making the accord, signed at Rome April 16, operative had not been fulfilled. These included "settlement" of the Spanish civil war.

Some progress in that direction was made today when Britain sent special messengers to capitals of both Spanish factions seeking approval of the European non-intervention committee's $13,750,000 plan for withdrawing alien troops from Spain.

Replying to a question by J. J. Davidson, Laborite, the prime minister said:

"His Majesty's government have repeatedly said they were not in a position to give full effect to the agreement until certain conditions have been fulfilled. At the same time, as I stated in this house June 22, His Majesty's government are anxious to see the agreement brought into force at the earliest date possible consistent with fulfillment of the above mentioned conditions."

Italy Wants Agreement

Italy is known to have been urging Britain for quick fulfillment of the agreement, but Chamberlain is understood to have been holding out for a "substantial" withdrawal of Italians fighting for the Spanish insurgents.

Davidson asked if the prime minister did not think final acceptance by 26 nations of the British plan to evacuate foreign fighters from Spain permitted the fixing of a definite date for enforcement of the Anglo-Italian agreement and of the setting of such a date would not expedite troops withdrawals.

"No," snapped Chamberlain. "I do not think either of those things."

He later said "I suppose some time must elapse" before Barcelona and Burgos reply to the evacuation proposals sent to them by special messenger.

CHIANG CALLS ON JAP PEOPLE TO CEASE WAR

Asks Them To Turn Militarists Out Of Power

Hankow, July 6.—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, China's supreme leader, appealed today to the Japanese people "to rise and halt the madness of their militarists."

"What benefit are you receiving from this war?" he asked the Japanese in a statement marking the end of the first year of the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

He declared that Japan's losses in manpower during the year's fighting had exceeded half a million and that the costs to Japan in lives and money already "vastly exceeded the losses of the Russo-Japanese war."

Referring to the "barbarity and cruelty" of the Japanese army, the Chinese leader declared that "today there is nothing left of the 'spirit of bushido (chivalry)' of which Japanese used to boast."

He urged the Japanese people, before it is too late, to compel their militarists to answer these fundamental questions:

"What is the meaning of this aggression? What could be its objectives? How much has Japan gained, how much lost? Can Japan banish the white man from Asia and become mistress of the Pacific?"

In another appeal, addressed to the peoples of friendly nations, Chiang expressed gratitude of the Chinese for assistance and expressions of sympathy, such as repeated denunciations of Japan, boycotts against Japanese goods, refusals to transport or handle Japanese products.

FIRST YEAR ENDS

Shanghai, July 6.—(AP)—Chinese forces, at the end of the first year of war with Japan, gained momentary advantage on three fronts today.

Along the Yangtze river about Hukow they succeeded in laying new mines to harry Japanese in a newly-planned offensive toward Hankow, the provisional capital of China.

A defensive boom was strengthened across the Yangtze, between Wuseih and Tienkacheng, 30 miles above Kiukiang which is the next objective of that offensive.

Along the Yellow river, where disastrous floods halted a Japanese push toward Hankow in June, Chinese asserted they had inflicted 700 casualties and forced Japanese to retreat between Unanku and Puchang, in southern Shansi province, after three days of fighting.

Along the coast, northeast of Nanking in Kiangsu province, Chinese said they had captured the towns of Fowning, 90 miles south of Hanchow, and Yencheng, 130 miles south.

Japanese were reported to have retreated to Hungtai, reversing their offensive to establish a stronger grip on the province.

The Japanese, meanwhile, continued to lay the groundwork for the new effort to reach Hankow—by way of Kiukiang northward on the Yangtze, and in a roundabout maneuver southward from captured Hukow across Lake Poyang, to Nanchang, Chinese air base, whence they would turn back north and west by land toward the China capital.

Extend Sales Tax Evasion Drive To Downstate Areas

Chicago, July 6.—(AP)—Finance Director Samuel Nudelman said today the current drive against sales tax evaders would be extended to downstate counties.

"In justice to business men who have been paying the tax, I intend to ask downstate state's attorneys to give us the same wholehearted support we received in Cook county," Nudelman said after a conference with State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

"We want to prosecute all persons who willfully evade the tax," Nudelman said he would arrange for a conference at Springfield of state's attorneys outside Cook county.

Courtney said tax cheaters attempting to avoid examination of their records by corporate reorganization would be the object of special investigation. Many concerns, he said, have been dissolved and then reincorporated for the purpose of concealing sales records and vading tax payments.

DIXON TO HAVE HORSE PULLING CONTEST AUG. 26

State Record Broken By Team Here Last Summer

Last year on August 27 at the Dixon Airport the state record in the horse pulling contest for pairs less than 3,000 pounds in weight was broken by a team owned by M. B. Summers of New Berlin with a lift of 2,875 pounds 27 1-2 feet. The event was part of the program of the Lee County Fair and Horse Show and the contest will be repeated at this year's fair on August 26.

The value of draft horses depends upon their ability to pull and capacity to endure sustained effort. The object of this test is to determine the sustained maximum pulling capacity of each pair. These tests will also afford valuable scientific data on the relation between form and function in draft animals and will stimulate general interest in the breeding and use of good draft horses and mules.

Object of Contest
In particular it is desired (a) to demonstrate the value of type, soundness and proper breeding in the selection of horses or mules intended for long and arduous draft work; (b) to ascertain and to demonstrate the proper method of training and conditioning horses and mules for long and severe draft work; (c) to encourage horsemanship in fitting harness and shoes and in driving; (d) to demonstrate the maximum pulling capacity of the horse and mule.

Gilbert Finch will serve as superintendent in this event at the fair on August 26. Mr. Finch served in this capacity last year.

Rules Announced
Rules governing the contest have been announced as follows:

1. A tractive dynamometer furnished by the Extension Service, College of Agriculture, Urbana, to be used to measure the pull.

2. Whipping is forbidden and the carrying of a whip, undue use of lines, profanity, and shouting is prohibited.

3. Height of animal must not exceed 16 hands, 2 inches with shoes called for contest.

4. No entry fee will be charged but each team owner will be required to purchase an exhibitor's ticket.

5. All contestants must have their entries in the hands of the Secretary of the Fair not later than 10:00 A. M., Friday, Aug. 26, 1938.

6. All teams contesting must be on the fair grounds not later than 12:00 o'clock noon, August 26.

7. Weighing at 12:30 P. M. without harness after watering, on scales stipulated by Fair Management.

8. Teams entered in this contest will not be required to stay on grounds, but if owner or agent so desire, stall space may be reserved at the regular fee.

Any other information may be secured from Charles R. Leake, secretary.

Other Contests Scheduled
Whether or not Illinois will have new champion pulling teams this year will be decided in a series of contests to be held throughout the state.

Already 22 contests have been scheduled. Location and dates are as follows: July 16, Newton; July 19, Sparta; July 29, Knoxville; Aug. 3, Benton; Aug. 5, Cambridge; Aug. 9, Bloomington; Aug. 10, Greenup; Aug. 11, Albion; Aug. 12, Springfield; Aug. 15 and 16, Peconia; Aug. 20, St. Joseph; Aug. 23, Milford; Aug. 24, Belvidere; Aug. 25, Dixon; Aug. 26, Monticello; Sept. 1, Bridgeport; Sept. 2, Urbana; Sept. 3, Stronghurst; Sept. 7, Petersburg; Sept. 8, and Marshall; Sept. 9.

All the contests so far scheduled are to be held in connection with the state and county fairs except the Urbana contests which will be one of the features of the third annual farm sports festival. Entries in the Urbana contest will be limited to the best three heavy teams in the state as indicated by records up to that time.

CHARTS STEPS TO USE IN CONTROL OF POULTRY DISEASE

An eight-point program for the prevention and control of coccidiosis, a poultry disease causing annual losses of thousands of dollars on Illinois poultry farms, has been outlined by animal pathologists at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

First step is to guard against gross exposure to coccidia. This requires protection against any stock that is infested with the disease or stock that has been exposed or that has recovered, according to Circular 468, "Coccidiosis of Poultry," which has just been issued by the agricultural college.

Written by Robert Graham, chief in animal pathology and hygiene, and C. A. Brandly, associate chief, the circular urges poultrymen to purchase only healthy stock from healthy flocks and to quarantine all purchased birds for several weeks before placing them with the flock.

Second step in the program is to guard against the mechanical introduction of the disease by visitors, by contaminated crates and by carrier animals including birds, rodents and other vermin.

The remaining six points include using sanitary containers to prevent

FRANK PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

Whenever too much corn is left over from the year before, the market for the new crop is not as good as it otherwise would be.

Markets for other farm products — hogs, wheat, butterfat, poultry, eggs — are all affected the same way when a surplus has been carried over from the last season.

Forty million pounds of the poultry marketed last fall is still in cold storage warehouses. People haven't been buying it very fast. Neither have they been willing to pay very much for it. Probably the general business recession has resulted in more demand for pork and beef — which means less demand for poultry.

We may not agree on the reason, but we can't get away from the fact that as long as poultry from last year is in storage it will hold down the prices offered for this year's crop of chickens.

Grow Your Birds Big

The situation can change, however, and it can change in a hurry. As soon as the price of chicken gets down to the point where women can compare it with the price of meat and not feel too extravagant in buying it, people will get chicken for dinner again! Then it won't take long for this surplus supply to disappear.

It would be used up even faster if fewer fresh young fives were put on the market.

And surely with plenty of grain on hand, the weather good, and the chickens growing well, there is no reason for you to sell chickens now if you are not satisfied with the price. Don't be in a hurry. Keep them and grow them big. You will get more for your grain if you turn it into poultry meat than you would if you sold it on the grain market.

Heavy chickens will sell better than small ones.

So instead of sacrificing your young cockerels now, feed them until they reach roasting size. You will not only put the poultry market in better shape, but you will make more money.

Think twice before you sell any chickens that weigh less than 4 pounds. You and everybody else who raises chickens in the Middle West will be better off if you grow them that large — or larger!

Sincerely yours,

Frank Priebe

Dairy Farmers Said In Position to Cash In on Legume Crops

Illinois dairy farmers are in a position to cash in on this season's bountiful crops of legume hays and verdant pastures, says Frank Gough, produce marketing director with the Illinois Agricultural Association.

"The use of roughages particularly clovers and alfalfa, lowers the cost of producing dairy products. Hay is inexpensive now and farmers can make good use of it to keep costs at a minimum this fall and

OGLE COUNTY'S UNIT OF LEAGUE MET AT OREGON

The Ogle county unit of the Corn Belt Liberty League, which was organized recently, met last Saturday evening in the Circuit court room of the court house at Oregon to discuss the new farm bill, the effect of the present Federal laws on the country and the dangers of the CIO to liberties and government.

Arthur Booth of Princeton was one of the principal speakers and spoke on the subject of the "New Farm Bill." Mr. Booth spoke recently at an organization meeting at Paw Paw at which time he assailed the Farm Bureau as "the worst wildcat organization that ever cursed the American farmer."

John Waters of Madison, Wisconsin, who also spoke at the Paw Paw meeting, has traveled in Russia for a number of years and in his address he cited the dangers of bureaucracy in this country as compared with the results in Russia. Mr. Waters warned that now is the time to wake up and recognize the danger of regimentation which he says will follow the terrific tax burden now imposed on the people.

As a solution to the problem as seen by Mr. Waters, he urged Americans to elect men to represent them "who are not mere rubber stamps to the administration and men who are in sympathy with you and will fight the efforts to build a bureaucracy."

Spring Pig Crop is 13 Per Cent Higher

Washington, July 6—(AP)—The agriculture department has estimated the 1938 spring pig crop was 13 per cent greater than that of a year ago and that the number of sows farrowing in the fall would be nine per cent greater than last fall.

The spring production was estimated at 43,384,000 head, or 4,960,000 head more than last spring. Not since 1933 has the crop reached that figure, the department said.

The largest increase in production—17 per cent—was reported in west north central states, including much of the western corn belt. Increase of 11 per cent in east north central states, seven per cent in south Atlantic, 15 per cent in south central and two per cent in west-ern states were reported.

The department estimated the number of sows to farrow this fall at 4,102,000, an increase of 349,000 over the fall of 1937.

The department said average production in the fall would give a total 1938 pig crop of about 69,000,000 head, an increase of about 7,000,000 head over 1937 production.

The estimated pig crop and sows farrowed, respectively, for principal states include, Ohio, 2,332,000 and 298,000; Indiana, 2,977,000 and 353,000; Illinois, 3,986,000 and 354,000; Michigan, 649,000 and 72,000; Wisconsin, 1,829,000 and 128,000; Minnesota, 3,666,000 and 158,000; Iowa, 9,203,000 and 507,000; Missouri, 2,038,000 and 261,000; Nebraska, 2,128,000 and 127,000.

BUREAU COUNTY STOCK JUDGING CONTESTS HELD

Walnut 4-H Team To Enter in State Meet, August 1

Eight 4-H clubs in Bureau county participated in a county livestock judging contest June 27 to determine the teams to enter the contest at Urbana on August 1. Beef cattle were judged at the Forrest King farm; sheep at William Prendergast's hogs, at Henry Hahn's and horses at William Hahn's.

The first four teams were very close in their final scores and all teams made good showings. Results of the contest by teams were as follows: Milo township, first; Lamolite and Walnut, tie for second; Princeton, third; Neponset, fourth; Buda, fifth; Bureau township, sixth and Barrett, seventh.

Lamolite and Walnut Tied
Because Lamolite and Walnut tied for second place, extra rings were judged in the afternoon so that final placings were as follows: First, Milo; second, Walnut; third, Lamolite, fourth, Princeton; fifth, Neponset; sixth Buda; seventh, Bureau township; eighth, Barrett.

This means that the Milo and Walnut teams will represent Bureau county at the state contest at Urbana on Monday, August 1.

The Milo team is made up of the following members: John Curran, Ernest Linden, Jerry Holland and John Blaisdell, alternate.

The Walnut team, is made up of: Harold Wallace, Marvin Guither, Jay Langford, and Wayne C. Young, alternate.

The high individuals in the contest were: First, Joe Heitz, Princeton; second, (tie) Harold Wallace, of Walnut, Everett Carver of Lamolite and Ernest Linden of Milo; third, Robert Hoover of Princeton; fourth, Robert Stetson of Neponset; fifth, (tie) John Curran of Milo and Jay Langford of Walnut.

There were teams from Milo township and Walnut. Milo township placed first with a total of $19 and Walnut second with a total of $48. The team members were as follows: Milo, Russell Fulk, James McKean, Dan McKean, Donald Springer, alternate; Walnut, Omer Baumgartner, Herbert Hasenager, Verden Broers, Tom Durham, alternate.

The judges, according to their judging scores, are: Russell Fulk of Milo, Omer Baumgartner of Walnut, Herbert Hasenager of Walnut, James McKean of Milo, Dan McKean of Milo, Donald Springer of Milo, Verden Broers of Walnut and Tom Durham of Walnut.

National 4-H Club Contest is Now in Its Sixteenth Year

The Lee county 4-H club girl with many irons in the fire has her chance to gain esteem for her talents and for club work in the National 4-H Girls Record now being conducted for the 16th year.

Oldest of national competitions for club girls, the contest has been approved by the state club leader and provides gold medals for girls having the outstanding county record, trips to the 17th National Club Congress for state victors, and $1,200 in college scholarships for sectional winners.

This nationwide quest for girls with the best all-around records is being conducted by Extension Agents who will select state victors from county winners subsequent to November 1. Records are sought which show creditable achievement in all of the home arts and also in such activities as demonstrations, exhibits and judging.

The five scholarships are $400, $300, $200 and two $150 each which are provided with all the other awards by Montgomery Ward and are to be announced during the Chicago Club Congress by a committee of State and Federal Extension Leaders. Forty or more state victors annual make the Chicago trip and over one half of the nation's counties name gold medal winners.

New Dean of Agriculture

Joseph Cullen Blair, newly appointed dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, director of its agricultural experiment station and director of its extension service in agriculture and home economics is known by farm people, fruit growers and business men throughout the state as a result of almost half a century of service in behalf of a more progressive agriculture. He succeeds the late Dean and Director Herbert W. Mumford who died May 21 from injuries received in an automobile accident.

It was just 42 years ago this summer that Dean Blair did his first work with Illinois farmers. As a new member of the college staff he covered the southern Illinois fruit country, first on a bicycle and later in a horse and buggy.

Four years later he started the college's department of horticulture and since then has served continuously as its head. Under his leadership the department has developed to a position of worldwide, as well as national, prominence in instructional and research work dealing with problems of growing and harvesting fruits, vegetables and flowers.

In assuming the new position Dean Blair asked for the continued cooperation and support of all organizations and individuals allied in any way with the university's program for a more progressive agriculture. "If I were not sure of that cooperation and support, I could not accept this difficult job," he said.

"Through the university and its cooperating organizations and agencies, we have an opportunity for a constructive, coordinated program for agriculture and rural living. There must be no slackening of the progress which has been made under the policies and program of past years."

Farm Briefs

Farmers in the county are marking their calendars these days and putting circles around the following dates: Illinois State Horticultural Society's meeting at Urbana on July 22; Annual 4-H club fair and Farm Bureau annual picnic at the Amboy city park on August 10; Illinois State Fair from August 13 to August 21; Lee County Fair and Horse Show from August 26 to 28; Bureau County Fair August 30 to September 2.

George Heinrich of Sublette township in Lee County, was the purchaser of the 244 acre William H. Glaser farm in Sublette township when the farm was sold on the premises last week. The purchase price was $130 an acre. The farm was sold by order of the court to settle the estate of the late William H. Glaser.

The Mooseheart Black & White held recently was very successful. Sixty-eight head were shown with ten from this district including E. B. Anderson of Princeton, Lee McCracken and son of Amboy, Leo Getzendaner of Mt. Morris and Rockford dairy of Amboy. There was a fairly large crowd considering the bad weather.

The editor of the Mount Carroll Mirror-Democrat has received from a farmer this brief communication: "I may be a rugged individualist, but I would rather have a lot of corn at a low price than no corn at a high price."

Farms owned by the Bert Schryver estate were sold at public auction Saturday at the home place seven miles southwest of Polo. Erastus Schryver purchased 200 acres at $41.90 and later sold 40 acres of it to Willis Dempsey at the figure he bid on it when it was put up separately. George Schryver purchased the balance.

Sixty per cent of the 96 bulls proved in Illinois last year lowered the butterfat production of the herds in which they were used, according to C. S. Rhode, of the dairy department of the University of Illinois.

Among Chicago sales recently from Polo, Sherwood sold some yearlings for Rudolph Jecklin at $9 and $9.25, 26 head of steers averaging 1050 pounds at $9.35; for Clyde Davis, 10 head of steers averaging 1050 pounds at $9.40 and 21 head averaging 1000 pounds at $10 for O'Kane & Nichols.

Randall Foster of Earlville marketed a large drove of high quality butcher hogs at the Chicago Stock Yards recently that were top sellers for their weight. There were 62 head in the consignment, which had been fed on the Foster farm near Earlville. They should without sorting at $9 per cwt. at an average of 286 pounds per head.

Frank F. Coffman of Maryland township testified at the annual Farm Bureau meeting that he is well pleased with the results obtained thus far in his soil erosion project in which last year he planted corn and small grain in alternating strips with the corn strips centered on contour lines and this year has the whole farm laid off on the contour plan. He has observed that there is less run-off of rain fall due to the contour planting resulting in more moisture available for the crop. He finds that is just as easy to plant corn on the contour as it is to plant it in straight rows, in fact, he finds it preferable. Neighbors who have observed the results last year are making use of the contour plan this year.

BOMBERS DON'T DROP OLIVE BRANCHES

From a purely technical standpoint, American inventive genius has seldom done anything more striking than its production of giant bombing planes for the U. S. army and navy.

The navy's enormous flying-boat bombers are already a familiar story; so, too, are the "flying fortresses," the army recently brought out. And now comes word that both army and navy are about to produce planes that will make these existing giants look small.

For the army, according to a story recently issued by Science Service, an 80-ton bomber is being built by the Douglas people. The plane will have a wing-span of more than 200 feet, will be able to cruise at better than 275 miles an hour, and will altogether be the most amazing flying machine ever designed by man.

The navy, too, is developing a new craft—a 50-ton "flying battleship," according to reports, which will be somewhat smaller than the new army bomber but which nevertheless will be the sort of aerial giant that makes one gasp in sheer wonder.

That such craft should be built is a glowing testimonial to the brilliance of America's aviation leaders. The conquest of the air has become something more than a mere phrase. A race that can do things like that has good reason to be proud of its powers.

But before we get too proud, we might properly remember just what it is that gets built into a bombing plane these days.

There is more in it than cunningly wrought metal and ingeniously devised plans. There is also a tremendous load of human misery—which may never actually be released, but which nevertheless is there, the grimmest and darkest single factor on the human race's horizon today.

The things that bombing planes have done lately in Spain and China have made us heartsick. Yet those are the things that all bombing planes are built to do, and when we wax prideful over our fine new bombers we must not let ourselves forget that fact. We simply fool ourselves if we say that our bombers would never do such things; military ruthlessness is a part of all wars nowadays, and if we do go to war you may be sure that our magnificent planes will do just about what the magnificent planes of other nations have done.

Which brings us to a dark and tragic problem. We can achieve things, in the way of design and construction, that are almost superhuman; but what we do with those things after we have achieved them is at the other extreme—subhuman. We use our best achievements to make the world a worse place to live in.

Let the new bombers thrill you, when they appear. Take pride in them. You have a right to. But remember, at the same time, what they are for.

MAN'S IMPROVEMENTS

"How far that little candle throws his beams! So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

News comes of an achievement of science that makes the unsentimental mind reel with wonder. A vapor lamp has been developed whose light is so great that only the burning substance beneath the surface of the sun would equal it.

The lamp is a little column of vapor about as thick as the lead in a pencil, and scarcely longer. A man could hold in one hand enough of these lamps to light all the airports in the United States.

We've come a long way from candles, but a good deed continues to shine with a brightness made doubly radiant by contrast with the vast and excessive darkness which surrounds it.

Man continues to be the most obstinate material for improvement that genius ever set its hand to.

HOLD IT

The trouble with the world is that there are too many organizations for the purpose of stabbing other organizations in the back, and not enough organizations like the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Singing in America.

If you haven't heard of that one before, you're hearing of it now, and the chances are you'll be hearing a lot more of it as time goes on. You can never tell; you may even become local Grand Master.

For the members are out to harmonize the country; and that might not be a bad idea. Members of what may or may not be termed the Alpha and Beta chapters, in Tulsa and Kansas City, got all full of the wonderful summer spirit that makes people dash around, the other day, and set out on a little membership campaign. They set a good portion of the countryside afire with a city-to-city close harmony marathon. They tied up traffic in at least one community. Wherever they went, people dropped their work, hung out the windows, cheered, and joined in the singing.

There ought to be more constructive organizations like that one. And if it's the summer weather that brings them on, somebody ought to do something about the winter.

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington—Following a month's exhaustive study of underlying factors, inner council economists have reached the following confidential conclusions regarding the business outlook:

1. That the downward spiral is now definitely in reverse and that recovery will come much sooner than they had previously predicted—probably by fall.
2. That the pace of recovery, once it does come, will be rapid rather than slow.
3. That the pattern of the current climb out of the recession is following the lines of similar situations in 1921, 1924 and 1932, when the production of non-durable (consumer) goods started upward while the production of durable goods still lagged.

The Reasons Why.

The New Dealers base their cheery report on these determining factors:

1. With the exception of the railroads, the financial structure of business generally is sound. Banks and insurance companies are untouched and farmers have suffered no serious impairment, despite the decline in agricultural income.
2. Consumer spending has been relatively well maintained; first, because individual resources have not been exhausted on a wide scale as they were in 1931-33; and second, because consumers have not developed a hoarding complex, due chiefly to the existence of the Federal Deposit Insurance system, eliminating fear of bank failures.
3. The localization of major declines in manufacturing, mining and related industries—which account for more than half of the rise in unemployment since last September—prevented the spread of a panic psychology throughout the country.
4. Liquidation of the large, high-priced inventories of consumer goods that were on hand when the recession developed last fall. Shelves generally have been well cleaned out and with demand increasing buyers are placing new orders with manufacturers.
5. High prices, which played a leading role in precipitating the recession, have been materially reduced, thereby stimulating both retail and wholesale buying.

The economists placed great stress on the last item. As long as prices continued high, they declared, buying continued to decline, but as soon as prices began to tumble, buying began to revive. This explains why the price-cut announcement of U. S. Steel was received with such jubilation by the White House group.

Speeders-Up.

Inner council analysts give three reasons for their prediction that recovery, once under way, will be rapid:

1. The government's new spending program is boosting relief and public works expenditures from around $150,000,000 a month to more than $300,000,000 a month.
2. The steady growth of foreign trade—due, incidentally, chiefly to war purchases.
3. Stepping up of production by many manufacturers in order to beat the gun on the wage-hour law, which becomes operative October 24. On that day its mandatory 25-cents-an-hour, 44-hours-a-week scale becomes effective and many plants, in order to take advantage of present lower production costs, are increasing their output.

The economists emphasize that only slight improvement, if any, will be shown in the over-all industrial indexes during the next few months. This will be due, they say, to the fact that the durable goods industries will be much slower in picking up than the consumer goods industries, thus holding down the general index level.

Real key to the situation will be developments in the consumer goods industries. Records of previous economic collapses show that the one unfailing signal of impending recovery was an upturn in consumer goods production. And the experts have informed Roosevelt that this now is definitely under way.

Steel Prices.
At the root of the far-reaching price cut announced by U. S. Steel was a case of sheer necessity. "Big Steel" found itself losing business to competitors who were underselling it with customers that U. S. Steel had had for many years. Within a few weeks, U. S. Steel lost four big contracts to Bethlehem Steel, which had underbid it.

One of these customers was Rockefeller Center, in New York, for which U. S. Steel previously had supplied all structural steel building material. Whatever the cause of the price cut, it was a signal victory for Assistant Attorney-General Robert Jackson and Dr. Leon Henderson, inner circle economist, who had vigorously advocated such a step last winter and as a result, received a sound spanking from the industry.

Cabinet Notice.

When notice is sent to Cabinet members that a session will be held, Steve Early, Presidential Secretary, picks up the telephone and says:

"Notify all hands Cabinet meeting Friday at 2 o'clock."

Merry-Go-Round.

It is not generally realized that the Flood Control Act passed in the closing days of Congress was a great victory for public power advocates. The measure extends the authority of the Government by giving it title to all dams and reservoirs built with federal money, with the Federal Power Commission and the War Department having equal voice in determining whether flood-control dams shall be constructed so as to produce electricity also. . . . The LaFollette Civil Liberties investigating committee is quietly scanning the affairs and operations of Associated Farmers, a California organization that has aggressively opposed unionization of farm workers. Numerous charges of terrorism have been filed against the Associated Farmers, which is reported to have a secret tie-up with the California State Chamber of Commerce. . . . Although Congress has wound up and gone home, Representative Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts still trudges tirelessly from department to department in the sweltering Capital wangling projects and aid for her hard-hit industrial district. . . . Since his appointment to the monopoly investigation committee, Representative Ewing Thomson of El Paso, Texas, has been burning the midnight oil every night reading scores of books and articles on monopolies, (Copyright, 1938, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

winter," Gougler points out.

"The ratio of feed costs to prices for dairy products, although both are low, is the most favorable it has been for several years. This is in contrast to the condition that prevailed in 1933 when the ratio was unfavorable in spite of low grain and feed prices. One of the factors protecting the butter market now is the buying of the newly organized cooperative set up to handle surpluses."

Gougler warns dairymen that cows need more than the nutrients contained in the grass they can eat. A cow giving 20 pounds of milk daily should be able to meet her requirements from pasture but one giving more than 20 pounds needs a grain ration, he said.

Grain should be fed the year around. When a cow fails to get the proper nutrients in her feed, she will use those she has stored in her body to make up the deficiency. Then the nutrients must be replaced which is usually done during the next lactation period at the cost of decreased milk production, the marketing director says.

Positive diagnosis of coccidiosis in fowls is often dependent on laboratory findings. It is explained. ## FIVE BOTTLES (count 'em)

At least five bottles are needed to supply your home with one bottle of milk daily:

1. The bottle delivered this morning.
2. Another back at our plant.
3. The empty bottle you returned today (we hope).
4. The bottle partially filled with unused milk in your refrigerator.
5. Another of the same or the bottle on your kitchen shelf waiting to be set out.

When you get a quart of milk from us, we have invested forty-five cents in glassware so that your eleven cents worth of milk will reach you every morning in a cream-top bottle, sterilized and sealed.

That is part of our service. We're glad to do it, but we count on you to prevent its becoming a real hardship. An idle milk bottle is so much extra, needless expense to us. Milk bottles in circulation pay their own way.

Miss Frances Bradley Pledges Nuptial Vows with E. J. McDonnell

At 9 o'clock this morning, Miss Frances Irene Bradley, daughter of Mrs. David Bradley of 1043 Highland avenue, and Eugene Joseph McDonnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. McDonnell of Rock Falls, were united in marriage at St. Patrick's Catholic church. The Rev. Father T. L. Walsh was in charge of the nuptial high mass, during which the boys' choir sang an "Ave Maria."

Tall baskets of hydrangeas were placed at either side of the main altar, and the altar was held with flowers and lemon lilies. Regal lilies and pale pink phlox completed the background for the bridal party.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, N. J. Bradley of Chicago, wore a simple, tailored frock of navy blue lace over tulle, with a turban of navy linen and slippers to match. Her flowers were white roses.

Mrs. William Rink, matron of honor, chose beige crepe, trimmed in luggage tan with harmonizing accessories. Her large hat was of summer felt, and she carried Talisman roses.

Edward Gordon of Sterling served as best man.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served for the immediate family and close friends at the home of the bride's mother. Later, Mr. McDonnell and his bride left on a brief wedding trip. Upon their return, they will reside in Dixon.

Mrs. McDonnell was graduated from Dixon high school in 1930, and for more than four years has been employed as secretary to Robert E. Shaw of the B. F. Shaw Printing Company. The bridegroom is employed at the National Hardware company in Sterling.

Daughter of Former Dixonites is to Wed Today in Rockford

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Smith of Dixon were among out of town guests at the wedding of Miss Margaret Lauder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lauder of Rockford, former residents of this city, and Harlowe Mads Rickard to be solemnized at 4:30 o'clock today at Emmanuel Episcopal church in Rockford. The Rev. George Wyndham Ridgway will read the ceremony.

The altar will be banked with palms and ferns and decorated with candelabra, Regal lilies, gladioli, and pink carnations.

The bride will wear a simple frock of white net over satin with a fingertip veil, caught with a knot of pale pink carnations and lilies of the valley. Her cascade bouquet is of pink carnations and valley lilies.

Much sentiment is attached to the bride's "something old," a gold bracelet set with diamonds, which was clasped on the arm of the mother of today's bride when she was wed to Jack Lauder 33 years ago. The heirloom was presented to Margaret's great-grandmother as a bridal gift from her husband in Canada more than a century ago, and was also worn by Margaret's grandmother on her wedding day.

Miss Jean Lauder is to be her sister's maid of honor. She has chosen dusty pink mouseline de soie with a Juliet cap of the same material. Her cascade bouquet will be of white carnations.

After a wedding supper for 40 guests, to be served in a private dining room at Hicks' restaurant, the couple will leave for northern Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. Rickard will reside in Minneapolis, where the bridegroom is employed by the Burroughs Adding Machine company. The bride, a graduate of Rockford high school, has been employed recently with the Milwaukee School of Engineering.

YANKS, PIRATES PLAY BEST BALL OF BIG LEAGUES

Changes In Form Are Likely Momentarily
For Both Outfits

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
This three-day suspension of regular major-league activities for the all-star game affords, among other things, a good chance to check up on the state of the pennant races.

Right now it looks like a case of pay your money and take your choice with three or four teams in each league within striking distance of the top and the New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates playing the best ball in their respective circuits.

The New York Giants, still leading the National league by 3½ games, and the Cleveland Indians, tied with the Yanks for first in the American, still are reaping the benefits of early-season spurts. Chicago and Cincinnati and possibly Boston in the National league are close enough to be dangerous while the Boston Red Sox in the American may start going places any day.

The Giants won 18 out of their first 21 games and the effects have been far reaching. They have played only .551 ball since then, but they've managed to come through every time the competition has begun to look serious. They're a good "clutch" team and Jack Doyle, Broadway's astute observer and "price maker," has reduced them from 8-5 to even money in his mid-season quotations.

Most Serious Threat
Although the Cubs managed to take first place at one time, the current Pittsburgh threat is the most serious the Giants have had to face. On June 7, the Buccos had a .500 average. Since then they've won 18 games and lost five—and just at the time when they're supposed to take their annual nose dive.

The Cubs, Reds and Bees all staged early season spurts and dropped back, but Chicago can be counted on for one good long winning streak nearly every year. The Reds, after climbing to second, have lost six straight to Pittsburgh and Chicago, emphasizing the fact the Giants' best chance lies in having their rivals knock one another off.

The Yankees' current war cry is "We've just begun to fight," and, in the light of previous performances, that looks like enough. They won nine straight before the Senators checked them with a tie Monday. Five pitchers are going well and they've belted 18 homers in their last 10 starts.

Counting out their early rush, the Indians have been playing close to the 600 mark, enough to keep them in the fight anyway. Their greatest trouble, rounding out a complete set of starting pitchers who can last the route, hasn't been settled yet. Johnny Allen and Bob Feller have done practically all the work lately.

The Red Sox, after a brief fling at the lead, settled back to a steady third-place gait until last week. They've started coming again with six victories in their last seven starts and the spur has left them only 2½ games out of the lead.

Royalty Attends Lenglen Funeral

Paris, July 6.—(AP)—Representatives of royalty and the French government and famous figures of sports attended the funeral today of Suzanne Lenglen, former queen of the tennis world who died Monday. She was buried in the Lenglen family plot in Saint-Ouen cemetery.

King Gustav of Sweden, the 80-year-old tennis enthusiast, sent the Swedish minister to represent him, and the funeral took on the aspect of a state ceremony, with representatives of Premier Edouard Daladier and various government departments present.

Such famous tennis players as Jean Borotra, Jacques Brugnon, Bernard Destermeau and Christian Boususs were among the many who attended at Notre Dame de l'Assomption church and followed the casket to the cemetery, where Borotra delivered a funeral oration.

Only the extreme tip of a root responds to gravity. Cut off the very tip and lay the foot flat, and it will not grow downwards, but straight ahead.

An Indian nawab once boiled a pot of tea for the Viceroy of India using fuel consisting of rupee notes to the value of $1100.

Fifth Annual All-Star Grid Player-Coaches Poll Begins July 10

Ballot Box In Dixon This Year At Boynton-Richards

The fifth annual poll to select the All-American football squad and its coaches will start on July 10 and end August 7. The first two weeks will be confined to voting for the players. Each voter should name eleven players, one for each position. The last two weeks of this period will be devoted to the election of the coaches. Each voter should count three points; second place two points, and third place, one point. In Dixon a ballot box will be placed in the Boynton-Richards store. The Telegraph again will cooperate in the poll.

Last year 5,036,466 voted for the All-American eleven. The coaches' poll totaled 6,844,872. The game in Soldiers' field drew 84,560 spectators.

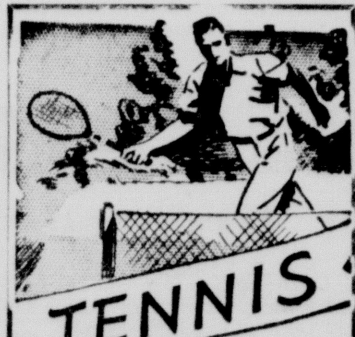

This year's game will be held at Soldiers' field on the night of August 31. In event of rain the game will be postponed one night.

The eleven players chosen as All-Americans in the voting must start the game against the Washington Redskins, champions of the National Football League, provided they join the squad and are physically fit the night of the game. The fans will select the starting lineup. Later in the game, of course, the coaches may substitute and change the lineup as they see fit.

No Value Unless Honest
This poll has no value unless it is honest. The Tribune accepts your votes as bona fide. For your all votes as bona fide. The Tribune checks its votes through its contest department as follows: If a list of 1,000 votes is brought (for example), names and addresses are selected at random and verified either by telephone or by mail. If five per cent of the vote is authentic, it is presumed the list is authentic.

Each name must be accompanied by an address. The Tribune counts any kind of a ballot, petitions, postcards, letters, if each name has an address which can be verified. Some newspapers print ballots.

All college and university football players, provided they were seniors during the 1937 season and completed their eligibility, are candidates for membership on the All-American squad. Eleven will win starting positions, but there will be at least five for each position. Last year the squad numbered 67.

All traveling expenses and training expenses will be paid for the boys elected to the All-American squad.

A tentative list of college and university seniors will be forwarded to each newspaper. Additions may be made at any time and by any newspaper as the list merely is to serve the reader as a guide. The voter is not restricted to this list. In other years newspapers have stimulated interest and increased the vote by opening up voting booths in the business district, in lobbies of theaters, and other places.

Following is a list of prominent college players who concluded their period of eligibility last season. Selections need not be limited to these nominees. This roster has been prepared merely to aid the standing players.

THREE SENATORS MARKED BY FDR FOR EXTINCTION

Senator Burke Predicts Open War on George Smith, Tydings

Washington, July 6.—(AP)—Senator Burke (D-Neb) predicted today that administration efforts to defeat anti-Roosevelt Democrats would be limited to three senatorial primaries.

The trio marked for elimination, he said, are Senators George of Georgia, Smith of South Carolina, and Tydings of Maryland. Like Burke, whose term does not expire this year, they fought the Roosevelt court bill and several other White House measures.

Burke's prediction came on the eve of President Roosevelt's departure on a transcontinental tour, during which he will speak some good words for four or five administration senators up for re-nomination.

There were indications the president would not utilize the journey, however, to voice opposition to individual Democrats who opposed parts of his program. He told reporters yesterday he did not know whether he even would stop in South Carolina, where Smith is running against two New Dealers.

Colorado Primary
Roosevelt also said he had formed no opinion on the Democratic primary in Colorado. Senator Adams, who has criticized some administration proposals is opposed by Judge Benjamin Hilliard.

The president declared he had given no consideration to the situation in Indiana, where state Democratic leaders have invited Senator Van Nuys to seek re-nomination in the party's convention next week. Van Nuys had expected to be denied re-nomination because he fought the court bill, and was prepared to run as an independent.

The invitation to Van Nuys was interpreted by Burke to mean that Democratic factions in Indiana are ready to make peace. The party organization, he suggested, feared a split might result in the election of a Republican senator and might damage the chances of former Gov. Paul V. McNutt in the 1940, Democratic presidential contest.

Another Interpretation
Another senator, who declined to be quoted by name, disagreed with Burke's appraisal. He expressed the opinion the invitation to Van Nuys might be an organization attempt to hamper his prospects if he ran as an independent.

Roosevelt will not stop in Indiana during his forthcoming trip. Neither is he listed for any speeches in Nevada, where Senator McCarran—another court bill foe—is seeking re-nomination.

Burke reasoned these omissions indicated the president would take no direct hand in the Indiana and Nevada contests.

Radio Regulations
Regulations for broadcasting of political speeches were issued late yesterday by the Federal Communications Commission. Chairman Frank R. McNinch said they were designed to give "fair treatment to all."

No station will be required to permit any candidate to use its facilities, but if they are made available to one office-seeker, equal opportunities must be

May Talk Reorganization
Roosevelt's assertion that the country wants—and will get—a government reorganization law indicated today he might point up the issue during his cross-country speaking tour.

The president told reporters late yesterday the executive branch of the government should be put on a business basis, that the people want it done, and that it is only a matter of working out details to accomplish it.

A new measure is expected to be presented to the 1939 Congress, probably combining features of the bill passed by the senate last spring and the one shelved by the house after a hardfought battle.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.), who opposed the administration's reorganization program, agreed today that some sort of a measure would be enacted next year.

Differ Over Methods
"Everyone is in favor of government reorganization," he said. "The differences arise over methods."

Byrd and some of his colleagues had contended the administration bill took powers from congress and gave them to the president. They fought in vain for a provision that congress must ratify any consolidations of federal agencies.

The president told his press conference that many congressmen who voted to pigeonhole the reorganization bill had favored 90 per cent of its principles and opposed 10 per cent of its details. The people, he declared, do not want to wait another 40 years for action.

The set-up for administration of the law has not been determined but tentative plans call for issuance of the permits to start about next March, after the rush for license plates has dwindled.

Divided opinion still existed in legal circles over whether the administrative appropriation of $400,000 could be approved in the legislature by concurrence in amendments.

Should the appropriation be blocked by all legal action, the rest of the law, if approved by the governor, would go on the statute books.

Many New Volumes in Readiness for Patrons of Library

WE ARE THE PEOPLE—Armstrong

During her three years as Emergency Relief Administrator the author saw the procession of relief clients in northern Michigan country and learned their stories. All human problems were there, and local resentment of an outsider, and dishonesty of officials, added to the administrator's difficulties. The average reader expects books like this to be written about China and India, but it may surprise many that such a book can be written about the United States.

YOUNG MAN WITH A HORN—Baker

Rick Martin is still in his early twenties when a famous orchestra leader hears him and brings him to New York where he becomes a sensation, recognized as the greatest saxophone player in the world. He is unwaveringly devoted to his music—then in a Harlem night club he meets Amy, brilliant and perverse, everything that Rick is not. A good novel.

RICH GIRL POOR GIRL—Baldwin

Romance.

RAWHIDE JOHNNY—Coolidge

Western.

MAY FLAVY—Brink

May was an Irish girl, born on a mean street in Chicago in the 90's. She had an unquenchable zest for life and a very definite idea of what she wanted. Deserted by her husband, disgraced by a criminal son, she remained hearty and undaunted. A vigorous picture of an uncouth but appealing character.

DARK RIVER—Nordhoff and Hall

The setting is Tahiti and nearby islands, and a feeling for the beauty of the country and sea runs through the book. The story concerns Naia, supposedly the daughter of an aristocratic native family, her happy marriage to a young Englishman, and the tragic results of her foster mother's refusal to tell the truth about Naia's birth. By the authors of MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY.

SOUTHWAYS—Caldwell

Erskine Caldwell's reputation will not be diminished by this new volume of short stories. He has made in his excellent and apparently effortless characterization a whole gallery of people who stir a laughter which not only amuses but disturbs.

AUTO DRIVERS' LICENSE BILL UP TO HORNER

Provisions of Proposed Measure Outlined Briefly

Springfield, Ill., July 6.—(AP)—Every Illinois motorist would be required to obtain a permit to operate on the state's highways under the drivers' license bill awaiting Governor Horner's approval.

The law, planned to go in effect next May 1, would affect 2,700,000 to 3,300,000 persons, it was estimated by the office of Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes.

Drivers' license cards would bear a description and the signature of the applicant on one side, and on the other, space for recording traffic troubles which could cause withdrawal of the permit.

Adults would pay a 50-cent fee and minors 15 to 18 years 25 cents—with parents' and guardians' consent—for a three-year period. The cards are not transferable.

Tests Discretionary

At the discretion of the Secretary of State, applicants may be required to take an examination given by the state highway division.

However, the secretary is authorized to set up his own examining staff in Chicago.

The bill provides examinations shall be given in the applicants' counties and shall include a test of sight, ability to read and understand traffic signs, knowledge of traffic laws and actual driving ability.

Conviction of or forfeiture of bail in three charges of speeding or reckless driving or one each of manslaughter, intoxicated driving, perjury or a felony in which a motor vehicle is used constitutes grounds for revocation by the courts of a permit for 30 days to one year.

Penalty for driving while under suspension would be five days to three months in jail and a maximum $500 fine or both.

To Keep Records

Upon revocation of a permit, the court would notify both the highway division and the secretary of state, the latter keeping official records. Cards may be posted in lieu of bail in offenses other than previously named.

The secretary of state, upon revocation of a driving permit, shall suspend registration certificates and license plates, as well as when a judgment has not been satisfied within 30 days.

The suspension remains in force until the motorist gives proof of financial responsibility to meet damages of $5,000 for injury or death of one person, $10,000 for injury or death of two or more persons and $1,000 property damage.

The set-up for administration of the law has not been determined but tentative plans call for issuance of the permits to start about next March, after the rush for license plates has dwindled.

Divided opinion still existed in legal circles over whether the administrative appropriation of $400,000 could be approved in the legislature by concurrence in amendments.

Should the appropriation be blocked by all legal action, the rest of the law, if approved by the governor, would go on the statute books.

Brothers Strike Oil With Their Home Made Drill

Albion, Ill., July 6.—(AP)—After four years of effort with home-made equipment the Leach brothers believed they had an oil well today.

Raymond Leach said the test on the A. D. Lee farm, two miles north of here, had struck a saturated McClosky sand at more than 3,350 feet. The well, if successful, would be the first in Edwards county in the current development.

The five brothers made their own cable tool buildings outfit about four years ago, using their dredge ditch digging equipment. They drilled nearly 5,000 feet before abandoning their first test about two years ago.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

IT is estimated that Texas, at one time, had prairie dog towns covering a total area of 90,000 square miles. Some idea of the number of animals thus represented can be gained by the fact that one square mile of an Arizona prairie dog town contained more than 7000 burrows.

LOVE ON THE RANGE

BY NELSON C. NYE

The Story So Far

"Blur" Ankrom is trying to escape his reputation for gun-play, but becomes enmeshed in trouble again when he rescues Lee Trone from a band of thugs. She offers him on a job on the Rafter T, which is in difficulties. He goes there under the name of Abe Streeter, and immediately has a run-in with the surly range boss.

Chapter Four

Old Man Trone
Hardly had the men of the Rafter T concluded their supper and started fishing in their pockets for the makings than a shadow darkened the doorway. Moose Hackett, the range boss, stood there swinging his glance about the room. It stopped abruptly when it reached Ankrom. The boss growled. "Streeter, the Ol' Man wants to see you up at the house. Right away." Without waiting for a reply, he turned upon his heel and passed from view, heading toward his private shanty across the yard.

Ankrom could feel the eyes of his companions upon him. His face was inscrutable as he rose from his place, pulled the last lungful of smoke from his cigarette and ground the butt into a dish. Still without speaking he passed through the open door and out into the gloom of early night. When he reached the ranch-house a vague slim shape was there awaiting him among the shadows of the veranda. He sensed that it was the girl, Lee Trone. Her voice reached out to him softly: "You came, then, after all."

"I reckon I did, ma'am." "Did you have any trouble on the way?" "What kind of trouble did you think I might be havin', ma'am?" There was a silence for a moment, then she said, "Dad will be waiting for you in his office. It is the first room off the right of the hall. I—I have told him that you are the friend of some friends of ours in Arizona; that I happened to run across you in town last night and offered you a job. Good night."

She stepped past him and entered the car. A second later Ankrom heard the purring of the motor, the meshing of the gears. With the crunch of gravel the car moved smoothly off across the yard.

Ankrom turned and entered the house. Upon the first door to the right of the hall he knocked. "Come in," a gruff voice bade and Ankrom entered an electrically lighted room.

His eyes went at once to the room's sole occupant, a man whom he judged to be well above sixty, who rose from behind a desk. This man Ankrom knew at a glance for the girl's father. His dark features held the weather-beaten appearance of having been much in the windy open. His was a big-boned frame—big, but gaunt with leanness of a man familiar with a horse's back. He thrust a wrinkled brown hand across the desk and Ankrom grabbed it.

A Definite Threat
"Son," Trone said, "I'm glad to know my friend of Colonel Abe Streeter. Well, I'm glad to know my friend of Colonel Struthers. How is the Colonel? Been some time since I've seen the boss of the XOT."

"He's making out," Ankrom said. "Lee tells me she ran across you in town last night."

"Well, we met. She invited me out. Said you could use another hand." A light appeared far back in Ankrom's eyes. "I'm kind of at loose ends right now. A job of work would suit me fine."

"Glad to have you with us—"

Trone broke off to stare past Ankrom's head. "What is it, Hackett?"

Ankrom had heard the opening of the door, but had not turned. He did so now and saw the surly range boss standing in the doorway. Hackett did not look at him. "I was figurin' to see you about that load of—"

"If you reckon on talking business with me," Trone cut in, "come back later."

"Well—" Now Hackett's eyes turned full upon Ankrom and there was hostility in them. "I was figurin' on ridin' out to the southeast line camp."

Trone's voice held a note of finality.

The foreman nodded curtly, strode away. But in the look he'd flashed at Ankrom had been a definite threat. There was vanity in the man; he would not forget that scene before the bunkhouse. He would bide his time until an opportunity came that would enable him to even up the score for the loss of caste inflicted on him by Ankrom before his men.

Ankrom found Old Man Trone studying him shrewdly. "What's up between you and Hackett, son?"

"Hackett? . . . Oh, you mean that fella? Shucks, I don't even know him."

Odd Layout

But Trone was not fooled. Ankrom saw, by this evasion, "Hackett's an odd man," the rancher said in a musing sort of way. "Good cowman; knows his business. But he's a man that takes a deal of pleasure out of giving orders. When he gives one, he usually aims to see that it's obeyed. Likewise, he knows a thing or two about guns. He's a man most folks try to get along with."

Ankrom grinned. "I know my place," he said. "I don't know a whole lot about guns, but I reckon I could find the trigger if I had to."

"Well, sit down, son. Visitors are too scarce around this range not to be treated with proper respect."

So Ankrom pulled up a chair and tilted it against the wall. An hour sped by while they talked about cattle, horses, and range conditions. At last he rose.

"Guess I better be gettin' on back to the bunkhouse." "Wouldn't do for the boys to be gettin' the idea I was too familiar. I—I broke off as he heard the purr of a motor outside. It was cut off with a squeal of brakes, a door slammed and high heels tapped across the veranda. The door opened and Lee Trone came into the room. There was a letter in her hand.

"Dad," she said with sparkling eyes, "Colonel Struthers and Betty are on their way to Dallas. They're going to stop off with us for a week or ten days and visit!"

Trone looked at Ankrom and a pleased grin crossed his grizzled lips. "Say, now! That sure is fine!" To Ankrom the prospect appeared anything but fine. Why had this Lee Trone felt it incumbent on herself to tell her father that Ankrom, or Streeter as she knew him, was an old friend of these old friends of theirs? Why, indeed, had she deemed it necessary to tell him anything save that he was a hand looking for a job? Certainly she seemed not to have mentioned their adventure in Pecos Pinto.

But that wasn't the only thing about this business, he told himself. The whole layout was odd! Why should those city thugs have lured her to that disreputable neighborhood? Why were they attempting to put a brand on her? Or weren't they? Why did the Rafter T's neighbors regard this spread and its owner for bad subjects for conversation with strangers? Was there some sort of strange war building up? (Copyright, 1938, Nelson C. Nye)

Ankrom learns more about the Rafter T, tomorrow.

Answer to Question No. 1—

1. The mother-in-law joke, after serving for ages, must be laid on the shelf as far as wives go and for 49 per cent of the husbands. A survey of 49,272 mothers and fathers by the Child Welfare League of America and Boys Athletic Association, just completed, shows that 92 per cent of the wives and 49 per cent of the husbands answer the question, "Do you love your mother-in-law?" with an emphatic, "Yes." Another popular notion is busted.

Answer to Question No. 2—

2. According to the journalist, Dorothy Dunbar Bromley, women are at least as conscienceless as men and, according to many lawyers, they are more so in cheating insurance companies. One woman brought a suit claiming her uncle was killed in an auto accident. He was sitting in her car when another car slightly bumped into it. Several months later he died of a heart attack which she claimed this had induced! Hosts of similar conscienceless cases are on record for both sexes. It seems they are about equal in this type of cussedness.

Answer to Question No. 3—

3. Both are important, although President Hutchins, of the University of Chicago, stoutly maintains that if school teaches young people

"how to think" this will give them the best possible insurance of getting a job. I do not believe that merely teaching them how to think on academic problems, important as that is, will make up for their ignorance of how to get a job and keep it. Recently 500 college graduates, who had presumably been taught "how to think," applied for jobs and 420 of their letters had misspelled words; quite a few did not sign their names! I think teaching them how to think by learning how to do something would have been a better job insurance than the one-sided education President Hutchins seems to advocate. (Copyright, 1938, John F. ## ORPHANAGE HAS ITS HOMECOMING SUNDAY, JULY 10

Open House, Program Part of Festivities That Day

The Nachusa Lutheran Orphanage will observe its fifth annual Homecoming on Sunday, July 10, when the institution will hold "open house" for its former wards and friends.

Invitations have been sent to over 200 Lutheran churches in Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa, and since these churches have an aggregate membership in excess of 100,000, it is expected that a large number of persons will attend.

Visitors will be welcome at all hours of the day and are invited to inspect the buildings and grounds at their leisure.

A program is to be presented in the afternoon in a large tent which will be erected near the main building. The speaker is to be Dr. R. H. Gerberding of Minneapolis, president of the Synod of the Northwest of the United Lutheran Church of America. A few musical numbers will be presented by the orphanage children and the program will be concluded with a band concert at 3:00 P. M. by the 129th Infantry Band of Mt. Morris.

For those who arrive in the forenoon, special morning worship and Sunday school will be held in the tent with Rev. Carl B. Tambert of Burlington, Iowa, delivering the sermon.

The Homecoming events are sponsored by the laymen of the Lutheran church as a means of establishing a closer bond between the orphanage and churches from which it obtains its income. The general committee in charge of the day's activities this year are: LeRoy Thumel of Sterling chairman; Dr. E. A. Stielmeier of Freeport, Charles Coleman of Nachusa and F. A. Hanson of Dixon.
